City Finds Tax Increase Necessary

Tolliver Named Top High School Grad

Advice on a series of problems which face high school graduates was offered by State Sen. Grady Hazlewood at the commencement exercises of Canyon High School Friday night in the West Texas State College Administration building auditorium.

Brian Tolliver was named valedictorian of the class during the program. Theresa Mickey was salutatorian and Charles Neblett was named as winner of the Plaque Award.

Scholarships, in addition to the state scholarship given the valedictorian, were awarded to five seniors. Miss Mickey received the Classroom Teachers scholarship, Jackie Barnard the AAUW scholarship, Sandra Michael the Ex-Students, Buddy Lowrey the FFA and Annelle Dugan the Journalism scholarship.

Sen. Hazlewood told the students "It takes real honest intestinal fortitude to get anywhere."

Advising on military service, the senator said students who are prone to get interested in other fields than completion of an education should begin college before entering service. Those who are sure to return from service to college might do better by getting military obligations off first.

On the problem of a major, the senator advised that students should work in those fields where they are most interested.

Sen. Hazlewood said that many students are worried about financing a college education. "Take out," he said. "You never know how far you can go unless you try."

The senator told stories of dozens of famous men, many from this area, who financed their educations by working. Among those were Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Gen. Thompson carried newspapers as a child and did laundry at the University of Texas, Sen. Hazlewood said. "He worked his way up. Now he's the greatest oil authority in the world."

Others the senator mentioned included Judge Marvin Jones, Vance Collins, Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Jack Fisher, Charles Ferguson and Robert O. Young.

Sen. Hazlewood told of students he had hired to work in the state capitol during legislative sessions. He said he hired nine during the past session.

"There hasn't been a failure among the kids working in the capitol," he said. "Many are honor students."

"Remember," Sen. Hazlewood said, "there's no finer pasture than the one that you're on."

Tolliver, son of Dr. and Mrs. Crannell Tolliver, has been accepted at Rice Institute in Houston to study science and engineering. During his high school career, he made a four-year average of 96. In the National Merit Scholarship examinations conducted earlier this spring, he ranked in the top one per cent of high school students in the nation.

Tolliver was recently named winner of the Bausch and Lomb Science Award.

Admission to Rice is selective and is based upon superior high school records, satisfactory scores made on examinations conducted by the College Entrance Examination Board and personal interview.

Admission to Rice carries with it a tuition scholarship valued at $5000 for the four-year course. Tolliver has also been notified that he has been awarded a freshman scholarship of $300 to be applied toward other expenses, one of a very few such scholarships granted to freshmen.

Rice is one of the few schools in this country to adopt the College System patterned after Oxford and Cambridge Universities.

There are four colleges for men and one for women. The members of each college live in separate dormitories and eat together in central commons.

A master and his family will live in a home adjoining each college. The college plan includes "college night" programs of an educational nature, as well as being the center of various social activities.

Tolliver will enter Rice in September.

Commission Finds Bond Repayment Runs Higher for First Eight Years

Repayment of the $650,000 bonds which will be issued if the bond election carries June 8 will require an increase in the tax rate although the city commission had previously announced that an increase would not be necessary. In a joint meeting with members of the Chamber of Commerce and the city commission, Mayor Hosea Foster announced the change and apologized for the earlier statement.

The commission proposed a tax rate increase from $1.25 to $1.50 per hundred dollar valuation. The change in plans came after a further study of the proposed repayment schedule for the bonds.

"We figured with the average payments on the schedule we could handle the retirement without a tax increase," Mayor Foster said. "But we figured some more and find that until 1966 the payments would run well over the average—it will be $80,000 in 1958.

"Now we don't see how we can handle it without a tax increase. It's been pretty well spread around that we can take care of a new issue without a tax increase. That's been our fault.

"But we don't want to leave the next commission booby-trapped. We don't want this to come up for election on June 8 with people thinking there won't have to be an increase. We could probably get by this year, but not in 1958," the mayor said.

In explaining why the commission originally had the feeling no tax rate increase would be necessary, the mayor said the bond men had added all the principal and interest pyments for both old issues and the proposed issue and had figured an average. The average payment over the lives of all the bonds would be about $65,000, which the city could handle without further financing.

In studying the repayment schedule last week, the actual annual payments for the next several years were figured by the commission, and were found to be out of the city's financial reach for the next eight years.

The city's annual audit was returned last week by Leon Hoyt and Company, and it was found that the water and sewer departments have been subsidizing the operation of the rest of the city to a great degree.

The commission told the chamber officers that even if the bond issue for water expansion does not pass on June 8, the tax rate should be raised in order that taxes would share its proportionate part of the city's operation.

The unequal situation that came to light in the audit report is one which has been built up for several years. Each time a commission needed extra money, especially if

No Absentee Votes Cast in Election

Absentee voting in the city's $650,000 bond election is underway with ballots available at the city hall.

The last day for absentee voting will be June 4, and the regular election will be June 8.

In order to cast a ballot in the election, voters must have a valid poll tax receipt or exemption and be a resident property owner in Canyon. The property must have been rendered for taxes before a voter is eligible.

The period for absentee voting began May 19, but City Secretary Andrew Boggs said no votes had been cast Tuesday morning.

A large vote is necessary in the election in order to keep the interest rate on the bonds as low as possible.

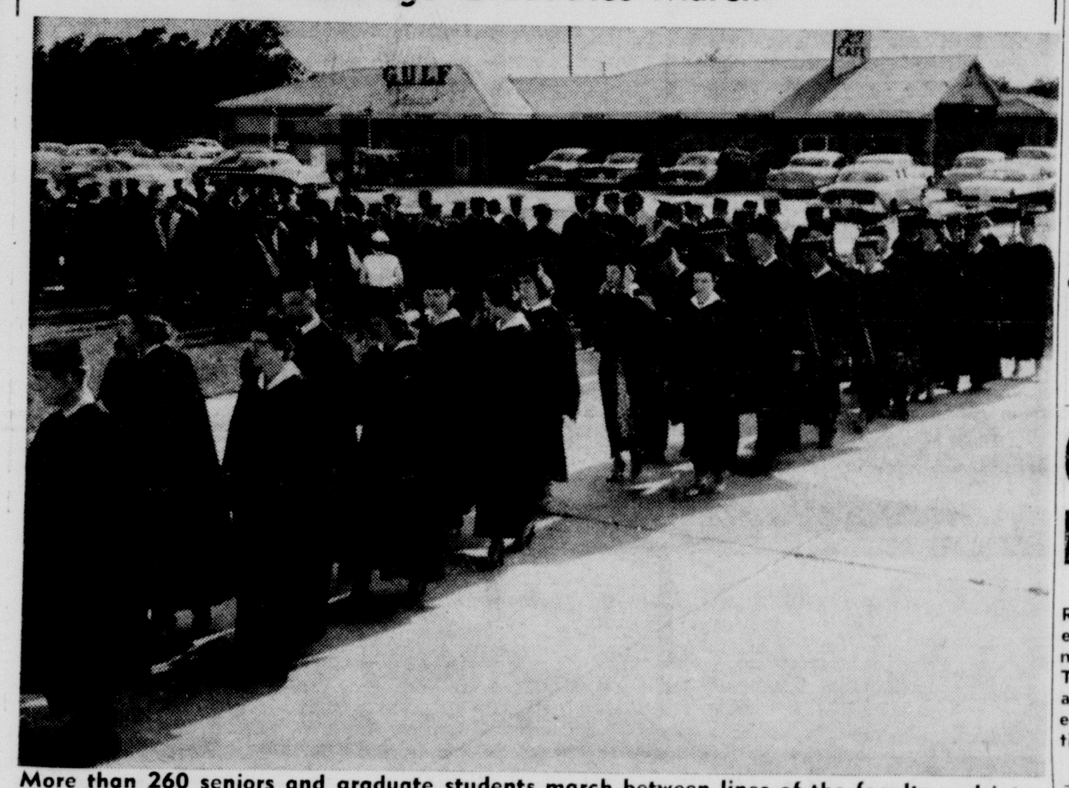
College Graduates March



More than 260 seniors and graduate students march between lines of the faculty and into the WT Fieldhouse in preparation for commencement exercises Sunday. Dr. Willis M. Tate, president of SMU, was speaker for the occasion.

Open Letter

On behalf of the people of Silverton, please allow me the privilege of expressing through your letters to the editor column, our profound appreciation to the wonderful people of your city and surrounding areas, who have so unselfishly aided this community following our tragic tornado.

Your generosity has been overwhelming and we give our heartfelt thanks to everyone who participated in our aid.

We trust that it will never become necessary that we return your kind acts because of such a calamity as visited our community.

Our thanks to your people.

Sincerely,
Spencer Long
Mayor, City of Silverton

County Calls for Raise in Tax For 1958 To Care for Buildings

An increase of 15 cents in the Randall County tax rate was adopted for 1958 by the county commissioners court Monday afternoon. The court took the oath of office and began sitting as a board of equalization immediately after setting the rate.

The increase will make the general tax rate total $1.20 and an additional 30-cent special road and bridge tax was retained. The special tax applies only to property held above homestead exemptions.

The tax rate for next year should bring $336,000 in revenue to the county from a $25 million tax roll. Last year's tax revenue was about $255,000 from a $24.3 million tax roll.

The county taxes are levied by funds. The rate for each fund for this year and last year follow:

	1957	1958
Jury	.05	.03
Road and Bridge	.25	.15
General	.25	.50
Courthouse and Jail	.25	.27
Sinking	.25	.25
County Special	.30	.30
Totals	1.35	1.50

In setting the tax rate, the commission used the provisions of a constitutional amendment passed by the voters last fall. Previously, the four regular funds—jury, road and bridge,

Scott Returns As Dean's Assistant

An assistant to the dean of men at West Texas State College, who will assume duties Sept. 1, has been appointed by President James P. Cornette.

The new assistant dean of men is James Scott, formerly of Borger and a 1955 graduate of West Texas State. Scott, one of WT's best known basketball names, will also be director of men's dormitories and will assist with student group activities.

Scott attended WT during the summer of 1956, working toward his masters degree, and will continue his work this summer. He was head basketball coach in 1957-58 at Clovis High School and played basketball in 1956-57 for the Wichita Vickers in the National Industrial Basketball League.

An honor student at WT, Scott was a member of Alpha Chi, national honor society. A student senator, Scott was named in 1954-55 to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," and was a candidate for Personality King in 1955.

In basketball, Scott was captain of the 1954-55 team, and was picked the Border Conference's Most Valuable Player in 1955. He was named to the All-Border Conference team for two years.

Named to national champion University of San Francisco's all-opponent five, Scott set a new and still standing free throw record in the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott have a son, James Michael, 7 months. Mrs. Scott is the former Peggy Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bond of Canyon.

Stores Closing for Memorial Observance

A survey of Canyon businesses has shown that most stores will be closed Thursday, Chamber of Commerce Manager Roland Black has announced.

The stores will be closed in observnce of Memorial Day.

First Little League Game Set

The first game of the first Randall County Little League schedule will begin at 5:30 p. m. Monday between the minor league Redlegs and Yankees. The major league Redlegs and Yankees will begin playing at 7:30 p. m.

The major and minor league teams will not be separated until Friday, following a week of workouts. The team rosters will be announced to the players as soon as possible after the selections are made.

The league schedule calls for two games on each of four nights a week. The games will be played Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Warmup for the minor league games will begin at 5 p. m. and the game will start at 5:30.

Warmup for the major game will begin at 7 and the game at 7:30.

The schedule for the first week of play calls for the Redlegs vs the Yankees on Monday, Braves vs Dodgers Tuesday, Dodgers vs Redlegs Thursday and Yankees vs Braves Friday.

Spectators are encouraged to attend the games, and concessions stands operated by mothers of the players will be open. No admission is charged for the games.

A meeting of Little League managers and volunteer umpires has been called for tonight by the league president, Bud Parker. The meeting will be in the West Texas State Fieldhouse.

The games will be played at the league's park, now nearing completion following several weeks of volunteer work. The diamond is located at the northwest corner of school property by Conner Park. Parking for cars will be available along 19th Street and Tenth Avenue.

The league does not plan installing stands for spectators this year due to the cost, but hopes to have some available for succeeding seasons.

Managers for the teams are Velton Sorgee, Redlegs, Hugh Greiner, Braves, Rex Reeves, Yankees, and Chester Reynolds, Dodgers.

Services Today For E. A. Jones

Funeral services for Edwin Augustus Jones were to be conducted at 2 p. m. today in Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel by James F. Nantz of Amarillo.

Bagley, Odessa; one sister, Mrs. Lou Templer, Carrizo Springs; 20 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

C. L. Kay Resigns as Director Of Church of Christ Bible Chair

C. L. Kay, director of the Church of Christ Bible Chair at West Texas State College since 1954, has resigned his post here to become dean of students at Lubbock Christian College. His resignation is effective June 1.

The new Lubbock junior college is expected to open in September. Kay's duties there begin in June.

During Kay's three years administration, the Church of Christ Bible Chair has shown spectacular growth, with its enrollment increasing by a 674 percentage. Within a year of his arrival, a new student center with a total value of over $70,000 was built.

Kay began the annual fellowship program which this month brought more than 700 Church of Christ ministers and laymen to the West Texas State campus. He persuaded Church of Christ congregations throughout the Panhandle to increase the monthly support of the chair from $175 to $1,000.

Since coming to West Texas State in 1954, Kay has traveled an estimated 20,000 miles to talk to Church of Christ congregations about the work of the Bible Chair. He has rarely missed a Wednesday night speaking somewhere in the Panhandle.

Kay was featured speaker at Abilene Christian College's Bible lectureships this spring, speaking on work of Bible chairs at state colleges. He was instrumental in the opening of a Church of Christ student center at Arlington State College.

A native of Pennsylvania, Kay attended Freed-Hardeman College before going to Eastern New Mexico University, where he earned his B.A. and M.A. degrees. He has studied toward a doctorate at the University of Colorado.

Kay was minister of the Henrietta Church of Christ for more than a year before coming to West Texas State.

Grand Prize Winner

Mrs. Glenn Dorris, center, her son, Bobby Glenn, 12, and daughter, Patsy, 5, have pleasant thoughts of what can be done with the $1000 she won in the Affiliated Grocers $20,000 Cash Awards contest last week. Mrs. Dorris was the third winner from Canyon. Mrs. D. P. Clark won $150 three weeks ago, and Mrs. Charles Gerald won $250 two weeks ago. Affiliated Stores in Canyon are Bellah's Super Market, Cooper's Market and Taylor and Sons.

Christian Church Has Installation

Formal installation service for the Rev. Gerald C. Findley will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday in the First Christian Church. Dr. Newton J. Robison, pastor of the First Christian Church in Amarillo, will deliver the installation sermon.

The Rev. Doyle Ragle, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will bring greetings on behalf of the Ministerial Alliance and the community. Other ministers of the Christian churches of this district who will participate include Richard Crews, Pampa, Gilbert Davis, Hereford, Ford Ellis, North Amarillo, and Chaplain Glen Mann, Amarillo Air Force Base.

W. H. McKee, chairman of the official board of the church, will have charge of the covenant of dedication ceremonies for the deacons, elders, congregation and minister. Lorene Mundy of Spearman will be the organist.

A reception for the new minister, his family and guests of the church will be held immediately after the service in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The public is invited to both the service and the reception.

Swimming Season Tickets on Sale

Season tickets for the city's swimming pool in Conner Park are available now in the city hall.

Prices are $8 for children 12 and under and $10 for adults. An additional charge of $2 is made for those who wish to take swimming lessons. Those who wish to take the lessons must purchase a season ticket.

Single admission prices will be 20 cents for children 12 and under, 30 cents for teenagers and 40 cents for adults.

The pool will open June 10. Lesson classes will begin June 17 with beginners reporting at 9:30 a. m. Intermediate and advanced swimmers will report for classes at 9:30 a. m. June 18.

Jodie Mahan has been hired by the city to manage the pool. Ronnie Mills will be the lifeguard.

Can you remember the last time you moved? And more especially, can you remember the vast amount of stuff that you pulled off the shelves and out of drawers that should have been classified just plain junk and thrown away?

Odds are that you didn't throw it away, and it's stuck around in different places where you live now, still junk, still serving no purpose, but ready, nevertheless, for that day when you "might need it."

We moved last weekend, and let me tell you, I had no earthly idea we had so much.

Not quite two years ago I moved down from Amarillo and it took one load in the car and one load on a pickup. That was all. Naturally, I knew we had gained quite a few possessions, but I figured that the furniture would be the biggest item.

Saturday I borrowed a cotton trailer, enlisted aid and two of us loaded the furniture on the trailer. Took it over to the new place, set it inside and took the trailer back where it belonged.

I just knew the biggest part of the moving job was done. There were a few other items that were a bit too big to put in the car, so I borrowed a pickup for a little while, to make "a couple of trips," I figured.

I'd load the pickup and the car. Dovie would drive the car to the new place and I'd drive the pickup. We'd unload, go back to the old place and start all over again. Finally after six double trips, we figured we could get along without the pickup.

In fact, we figured we could put the rest of the stuff in a tub (it was the kind of thing that you can carry six of or put a whole bunch in a box and carry it all) and get it moved over in one trip. By that time it was about dark so we knocked off for the day.

Sunday afternoon we went back to get that "one" load and give the old place a final cleaning.

Well, sir, it took four trips with the car loaded down. It took nearly all afternoon to move what was left and clean up.

And the new house. Luckily, we didn't stack anything on the bed, so we were able to sleep Saturday night and Sunday night. We could get into the bathroom and take baths, and we somehow left enough space on the table to put down a couple of plates for breakfast.

We'd opened the front and back doors enough times to shove the piles clear of the doorways—and that's it. Only two chairs, straight-backs in the kitchen around the table, are clear for sitting down. I suppose that's all one really needs, a place to sit down, to eat, bathe and sleep.

But I'll be glad a couple of months from now when we finally get all that mess hidden away in closets and drawers. It kind of hurts to see so many useless things around in plain sight.

One of the first things an industry looking for a new plant site searches for is water.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is helping an unnamed industry look for a new site. The organization sent out a questionaire to all the local chambers in the area. The West Texas chamber did not say what the industry produces, but said that it would use 200 workers.

It needs a good supply of natural gas and electricity, 30 acres of land for immediate use and 15 more for expansion, needs transportation facilities and the industry wants to know the tax structure.

But on the water question, it needs this: "Assurance of ability to meet the following requirements: Maximum hourly use, 7,000 gallons. Maximum daily use, 170,000 gallons. Maximum monthly use, 5,100,000 gallons."

Let's see now. If Canyon were to get this industry, we could take city well no. 2 out of general service and devote it to the industry's needs.

Of course, no one could figure out what the rest of the city would do without that 9,000 gallons an hour—and woe betide the fireflow rate.

And, anyway, where would the city get the water to serve the 200 workers?

Well, I suppose we can forget about trying to attract that industry; we can't handle it. Maybe one will come along that doesn't need any water and we can try for it.

One of the bills sponsored by the Texas Press Association in the recent session of the legislature was one to fix responsibility for publications of reports required by law. It didn't add any new things to be published, any new public notices. It just set out WHO would have the responsibility for seeing that the required notices were published.

And, to make sure innocent mistakes were not to be punished, the law provided for several warnings before prosecution began. That would make it apply only to those public officials who intentionally violated the law.

The bill was passed by the Senate, after the committee had made its provisions stronger, and was sent to the House. The House State Affairs Committee approved the bill and added their "Do Pass" endorsement. Gov. Price Daniel also endorsed the bill.

But when it reached the floor of the house, two downstate representatives began to fight it actively, and it was killed. Those who fought it were Robert D. Bullock of Hillsboro and James M. Cotten of Weatherford. The final vote was 74 to 56 against the bill.

Rep. Ted Springer, our representative, voted for the bill. J. Edgar Wilson, the Potter County representative, voted against it.

The bill was planned originally to correct such excesses as occurred in Duvall County under the late Parr regime. At present, various governmental agencies are required to give due public notice of certain things such as the intention to make large purchases, public hearings for budgets, audits and such like.

And the laws provide a criminal penalty for non-publication of the notices—but they do not say who is supposed to have the public notices printed.

The bill sponsored by the Texas Press was designed to say that the county clerk or the auditor, the city secretary or the mayor or some specific individual had the responsibility. But it was killed by the House, and if another Duvall County-type mess shows up, you know where the responsibility lies.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

John Wesley Hardin is supposed to have killed more men than any other gun-fighter in the history of Texas—40, say some chroniclers.

Without a doubt, he was the most adroit of all when it came to handling a pistol. When he had been arrested and was being escorted, overland, by Rangers to stand trial, while in camp, one of the officers would hand him a pistol—unloaded, of course—and these men, who knew a thing or two about handling a gun themselves, watched with admiration his quickness and skill.

Some credit Hardin with originating the maneuver known as the "border roll." In any case, he was a master of this maneuver, which consisted of offering a pistol, barrel first, with a finger in the trigger-guard, then — with a twirl —. the pistol was pointed squarely at the other. Hardin used this trick to keep Marshal Wild Bill Hickok from disarming him in a Kansas cattle-drive town.

At the end of the trip under the Rangers' guard, Wes was tried and sentenced for the killing of a deputy sheriff. He served a long term.

During his outlaw days, Hardin demonstrated daring and fast thinking. For example: he and a companion were being pursued by a posse. As the two men dashed over a hill, here came another posse toward them! What was to be done?

The two posses, of course, could not see each other. Hardin and his friend wheeled their horses and, yelling and shooting, they rode into the first set of pursuers. This totally unexpected development naturally created confusion. And, next moment, here came the other posse. The two parties of horsemen became almost hopelessly entangled and, in the mixup, the two outlaws got away.

While in prison, Hardin studied law and, after he was freed, went to El Paso, ostensibly to practice law, but perhaps with the plan in mind of resuming a career based on his skill with a gun. That town had more gun-fighters than any other in the country at that time. They were not daunted by Hardin's reputation. Each was anxious to be pointed out as the man who had killed John Wesley Hardin.

The years in prison had taken their toll. Hardin was no longer young and dashing. He was a name, a shell.

Even so, he was shot from behind as he was rolling dice at a bar. The man who killed him got killed soon afterward—and that man in turn was killed. Being a pistoleer in the old days was not a healthy career.

Three Canyonites On Lions Staff

Three Canyonites, all students at West Texas State, will serve on the staff of the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children in Kerrville this summer.

They are Carol Ann Holman, David E. Miller and Norris Samuelson.

Miss Holman will be a junior counselor. Miller will be water safety instructor, a post he held last summer at the camp. Samuelson will be a counselor.

They will join other members of the staff at a counselor's banquet May 30, the start of an intensive two-day orientation program. The camp officially opens for the summer on June 2.

The camp, with 15 permanent buildings on 504 hillside acres, is free to any blind, deaf, mute or crippled youngster of Texas from seven through 16. Six two-week sessions are held and the camp's capacity is now 720.

In its four previous years, the camp has served more than 2,000 handicapped children. Applications of campers are handled only through local Lions Clubs.

Vows Solemnized

MR. AND MRS. DON HAROLD NEWBERRY

Vann-Newberry Wedding Read in Recent Church Candlelight Service

Wedding vows were solemnized recently for Arrowhanna Jo Vann and Don Harold Newberry in a candlelight ceremony at Emanuel's Lutheran Church in Sequin, Texas. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joe Vann of Sequin and the bridegroom's parents are C. F. Newberry, El Paso, and Mrs. Mary E. Allen of Dixon, Calif., formerly of Canyon. The Rev. H. L. Anderson read the double-ring ceremony. Organist was Doris Franke, student of music at Texas Lutheran College. Ann Prinz, also of TLC, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Carol DeMars of Detroit, Mich., a TLC student, attended the bride as maid-of-honor, and Velma Boecker, Sequin, a SWTSTC student at San Marcos, was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of pale orchid nylon net over taffeta designed with an off the shoulder fitted bodice and bouffant skirts. Their bouquets were cascades of white aristocrat rose buds in the shape of a cross.

Candlelighters were uncles of the bride, Norman Randow, Cibolo, and Earl Noble, San Marcos. Stephen Randow, Cibolo, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Harry Lewis, Randolph Air Force Base, was best man and Richard Voss, New Braunfels, a cousin of the bride, was groomsman. Ushers were Edmund Voss, Cibolo, and E. O. Voss, San Antonio, uncles of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a handmade gown of imported handclipped rosepoint lace, nylon tulle and net over bridal taffeta. The scalloped, off the shoulder neckline as well as the long fitted lace bodice and the fitted sleeves which terminated in points over the hands, were outlined with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The full bouffant skirt was trimmed with roses and sprays of jeweled rosepoint lace.

Her veil of French illusion was attached to a Queen Elizabeth type crown of rosepoint lace embroidered with bridal pearls and iridescent sequins. Her only jewelry were her mother's pearls. The bridal bouquet was a purple throated orchid on a white Bible.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Vann, wore a beige Moire cocktail sheath dress accented with embroidered pink leaves and a deep black panel. Her accessories were pink and white and she wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception honoring the bridal party was held in the church basement. Pastel colored daisies formed the centerpiece on the bride's table. The wedding cake was made in the form of a large heart with a smaller heart surmounting it.

Assisting in serving were Patsy Willimann, Myrna Schulze, Marie Norquest and Ann Prinz, all of TLC. Mrs. Robert Couch and Mrs. Robert West were in charge of the gift table, and Ann Prinz presided at the bride's book.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a lame gold crystalline princess style dress topped with a lined fitted jacket of pale green and gold stripes. Her accessories were white and her corsage was the orchid from the bridal bouquet.

The couple is at home at 201 S. Crockett, Sequin. In June they will travel to West Texas, New Mexico and possibly California, after which the bridegroom will embark for Korea.

Mr. Newberry is a graduate of Canyon High School.

Attending the wedding were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Newberry of Farwell; his brother, Clifton F. Newberry Jr. of Walker Air Force Base in Roswell, N. M., his cousin, Don Weeks of West Texas State College.

Graduation time is here. The round of parties for sweet girl graduates, newspaper stories of outstanding seniors, commencement speakers, trips and jobs, remind us that thousands of young Americans are finishing the first leg of the journey toward Grown-up-dom.

If we could slip back into the wings, where caps and gowns are being put on, what would we find?

Well, even as in past generations, we'd find a lot of just plain kids — teasing pranksters, giggling girls, shy onlookers, arrogant bullies, popular personality youngsters, and all the rest.

But we'd find some with new dimensions, too. There are the boys and girls who reached out for mature responsibilities while still children. They have married; some of them are parents. There are those with what teachers call "a bright future," who have won scholarships to good colleges. Many others will get college training because their parents are sending them, with no particular ambition of their own.

There are others whose high school records show they deserve a chance for more education, but whose parents either cannot or for selfish reasons will not send them away to school.

Happy and carefree . . . serious and purposeful . . . lost and bewildered . . . the thousands who march down auditorium aisles this month toward flower-decked stages are entering a new world. And parents, worshipful and worried, watch those lines of grey, blue, white, maroon or black flowing gowns and mortar boards until one certain one comes along. Then their eyes become telescopic. They see 17 years of questions and planning and growth. Through loving eyes, they see yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Yes, for many, May of 1957 will be a month to remember!

Frigidaire Electric Range is

Miss Chloe Ann Black

The Black family lives at 1010 Eighth Ave. and have a neat, pink, attractive kitchen tucked away there, for which they chose this double oven Imperial Frigidaire range with tints of pink, and one of those new Frigidaire Food Freezer-Refrigerator Combinations with the built-in look.

Mrs. Black and Chloe Ann, the chief cooks, (the boys just eat) use their automatic oven and outlet every day to have the coffee ready in the morning and to have the noon meal ready when they get home. This is a mighty busy family since they all work. The family uses the ovens to the fullest extent baking and broiling as well as the Automatic "Heatminder" and Speed Heat Units and Thermizer. Hats off to the Black family for having chosen FRIGIDAIRE to complement their beautiful home.

Now is the time when everyone is buying those Frigidaire Ranges and Refrigerators because when you buy Frigidaire you buy the best.

"Set it and forget it" — magic words that spell more leisure for you, and safely, too. Of course, it's electric cooking, for electricity gives you precise control — dependable control with no variations in cooking or baking heats. Electric controls are the standard for dependability so, with electric cooking, "set it and forget it" means just that. It's 1957, time for you to begin cooking the dependable way. Of course, it's electric.

MRS. CLAY COOPER

Fruit Cocktail Pudding

1 cup flour
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. soda
Pinch of salt
1 egg
1 No. 2 Fruit Cocktail
1 cup Brown sugar
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift dry ingredients three times, add beaten egg and fruit cocktail, pour into oiled and floured pan, sprinkle with brown sugar and nuts, bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees — cool, top with whipped cream and serve.

(This is the 4th in a series of favorite recipes to be run for the next 8 weeks.)

'Martin Luther' Shown Tonight

"Martin Luther," a full-length feature film with a running time of 103 minutes, will be shown tonight at the First Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend the showing of the film, which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

The film was made on location in the towns, castles and churches of West Germany. It is the story of Martin Luther, his efforts for reform, his excommunication and the development that led to the origin and growth of the Protestant movement.

Careful research of European and American documents of Roman Catholic and Protestant writers formed the basis for the script.

The film has stimulated thought and discussion in many countries and has been acclaimed by both audiences and critics. It re-creates an important era in human history, the Protestant Reformation.

Cooper's MARKET Fine Foods

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Laws are fine so long as they have no teeth in them.

Apparently that's the feeling of 74 members of the Texas House of Representatives.

At least that's the way they voted as they came down the home stretch to final adjournment.

House members had their best opportunity to express their opinions about putting teeth in Texas laws when Senate Bill 55 by Sen. Preston Smith came up for House consideration.

Previously it had passed the Senate with flying colors; it was given a "do pass recommendation by the House State Affairs Committee; and it carried Gov. Price Daniel's endorsement.

SB-55 pertained to publication laws. But only to laws already on the statute books. Specifically only those laws ignored by those public officials who dislike to report their activities to the home folks.

No new public notices were called for in the bill. All SB-55 did was strengthen existing laws. It merely pin-pointed WHO was responsible for printing public notices . . . so that the people might be informed.

Present laws provide that any public official who flatly refuses to follow the requirements of existing laws shall be subject to a fine or removal from office. That's already on the statute books. But Texas laws fail to designate specifically WHO is responsible.

The new bill was even more considerate than existing laws . . . for it even allowed for delays due to oversights or plain carelessness.

Actually SB-55 applied only to those public officials who INTENTIONALLY violated the law. It required numerous "warnings." It would therefore affect only those public officials whose attitude was "The public be damned. I'll spend their money as I please. I'll tell the people ONLY what I want them to know."

SB-55 was one of the BETTER GOVERNMENT bills proposed by the Texas Press Association. House sponsor was Rep. John R. Lee of Kermit, Texas.

The vote was 74 against and 56 for the bill.

We think the public is entitled to know the names of those who voted in their interest.

Although in the minority these Representatives fought to open public records to public view. They made a sincere effort to tighten Texas laws against further secrecy in governmental operations.

Here are the staunch advocates of Freedom of Information in the Texas House of Representatives:

55th Milestones

These measures won out in the waning days of the session:

General Appropriations: An all-time high budget of $2,090,000,000 for the next two years was approved. It included salary raises for state employees.

Teacher Pay: Both the House and the Senate approved measures to raise teachers' salaries.

Higher Pensions: Both houses okayed a proposed constitutional amendment upping the amount the state can spend on public welfare each year — to $47,000,000. If approved by the voters it will bring a $10 monthly increase in the old folks' checks.

Congressional Redistricting: In a redistricting bill the legislators abolished the Congressman - at - Large post now occupied by Martin Dies and gave Harris County (Houston) a second congressman. They also juggled around eight other districts and divided Harris County into two districts.

Urban Renewal: Approved was a slum-clearance bill which would allow cities to condemn blighted areas for redevelopment by private enterprise.

Teen-Age Drivers: Two bills affecting the hot-rod crowd were given final okay. One makes girls under 18 and boys under 17 responsible for traffic violations. Other gives the Department of Public Safety the say-so as to whether youngsters under 16 can have drivers licenses. Previously, county judges had the authority. Another bill, governed destruction of property by minors. It would make parents responsible, up to $300.

55th Gravestones

Apparently dead for this session are these issues:

Law Enforcement Commission: Governor Daniel's plan for a "super grand jury" for investigating crime and official misconduct.

Reform Bills: (1) Prohibiting lawmakers from appearing before state boards for a fee; and (2) eliminating the automatic delay of lawsuits when a legislator is hired as an attorney.

Four-Year Colleges: Making senior colleges of Arlington State College at Arlington, Texas; Midwestern at Wichita Falls; and John Tarleton at Stephenville.

Wayside News

The Rev. Joe Leatherwood filled his regular appointment Sunday. His wife accompanied him and they were dinner guests in the Melton McGehee home.

We were sorry to hear of the passing of another oldtimer formerly of the Wayside community. Joe Mayo died May 17 in Amarillo and was buried May 20 in Memorial Park Cemetery, Amarillo. His wife, Ira, preceded him several years ago.

Mrs. Melton McGehee, Mrs. Guy Watson and Mrs. Leroy Roberts attended WSCS District conference at Plainview last Tuesday.

Mrs. R. C. Petty of Goldthwaite and Mrs. Charles Kennedy visited with Mrs. Grady Kennedy in Canyon last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Franklin were Canyon callers Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Franklin were visiting and shopping in Canyon, Amarillo and Happy Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reed, Butch, Bill and Sue visited in the Z. D. Starkey home in Amarillo last Sunday and Monday. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Starkey are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Modisette and Fay were Canyon shoppers on Friday.

Charles and Robert Kennedy were business callers in Claude Thursday.

Those attending the Joe Mayo funeral in Amarillo from Wayside were Mrs. Bessie Lane, Joyce Lane and Wiatt Heisler.

Mrs. Leroy Roberts, Princess and Deltah spent the first part of the week in the W. R. Moore home in Tulia.

Mrs. E. J. Mahler, Mrs. J. J. Lane and Joy and Charlotte Adams were Amarillo shoppers Wednesday.

Shelia Payne of Amarillo recently spent a week in the E. J. Mahler home.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The South Has Risen

The saying, "Save your Confederate money, the South will rise again," came true last week insofar as the South rising, but I am afraid that very little effect will be in order as far as the value of Confederate money is concerned.

The incident was occasioned by the remarks of the President of the United States and a British Field Marshal who were visiting the Gettysburg battleground and reliving the battle from a military standpoint. The remarks of these two gentlemen created a violent reaction in this area almost immediately when they appeared in the newspapers.

Most of the reaction was critical of both the President and Viscount Montgomery. The ma-'jority of the people here seemed to feel that the remarks were inadvisable if not inappropriate.

Whatever happened at Gettysburg did not change the hero status of Gen. Robert E. Lee insofar as the South is concerned, nor did it change the deep and profound respect in which General Lee was held by all of his contemporaries, whether Confederate or Yankee. The fact is that the South lost the battle of Gettysburg, which proves that something went wrong.

The further fact is everyone knew that Gen. Robert E. Lee was leading the Confederate forces in that battle. I dare say that no more than one per cent of the people in the United States had any idea that General Meade was even in the battle before reading the remarks of President Eisenhower and Viscount Montgomery. In fact, very few people even remembered there was a Yankee general named Meade.

In any event, the losing General is the one who has gone down in history as a hero. This proves there is glory even in defeat when one fights for his principles.

Montgomery certainly did not exhibit much foresight by his remarks, because he had already accepted an inviattion to speak in Montgomery, Ala., the first capital of the Confederacy.

Although the Civil War ended almost 100 years ago, there is still deep feeling regarding the issues over which this nation was almost torn apart on the battlefield. Expressions of caustic criticism have been plentiful, cartoonists have had a field day, and the punsters who are always present around Washington have found a new source of material.

Chances are that much will be heard about these off-the-cuff remarks of Eisenhower and Montgomery for some time to come. One fellow here remarked that if Montgomery had come over to help President Eisenhower in advancing his foreign aid program, his words at Gettysburg certainly started him off with his foot in his mouth.

Actually, in view of the precarious position in which the foreign aid funds are now lodged, I feel sure the British must have considered the Viscount's actions in poor taste.

It might also be pointed out that the ruffled feelings of the South concerning the Administration's Civil Rights Bill were not smoothed by hindsight criticism of the No. 1 hero of the Confederacy. Tempers are already short because of the attempts to push through legislation which is admittedly directed at the Southern states. Digging into past wounds could be equivalent to adding insult to injury.

In fact, a numbered of groups gathered in Washington this month for the purpose of celebrating the third anniversary of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States denying to the states the rights which they had enjoyed under the "separate but equal doctrine" in providing school facilities for white and colored children. These are the groups which feel they are the beneficiaries of that decision.

One columnist wrote in a Washington paper that such a public demonstration might be considered a demonstration of emotions that could eventually bring about serious consequences. He pointed out that the "American" branch of the Communist Party, through the Daily Worker in New York, had been issuing exhortations to its members and fellow travelers to join in the affair held May 17.

Whether or not this was done has been determined at this time. These exhortations have been propply denounced by the leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which has been organizing the celebration. However, it must be remembered that public meetings for the expression of emotions, if available to one, are available to all.

Yielding to emotions has never provided a sound solution to any problem. Therefore, it would be well for those who seem to be fomenting the criticisms and attacks on the South to weigh their position most carefully.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

The supervisors of the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District wish to thank the pastors of the local churches and the 4-H club boys who participated in Soil Stewardship Sunday.

The weeds that are in the fields are taking the moisture from the ground. These weeds should be turned under. The longer they stay in the fields the more moisture they will deplete from the soil.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service assisting the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District have helped install the following practices on the following farms: Earl White and W. T. Smoot, 4.3 miles of standard terraces, Rex White and W. T. Smoot, 4.3 miles of standard terraces, J. T. Goettsch 1465 feet of concrete pipe, and Jack Frost, 3555 feet of concrete pipe. The terraces on Mr. Smoots are level with closed ends. These terraces will hold all of the water that falls on this farm. With a conservation crop rotation this land should produce good crops.

Now is the time to construct a farm pond, if you have a suitable site. These ponds should hold water the year round after they fill up.

For any technical help on your farm problem see your supervisors or technicians of the Soil Conservation Service.

Stephens-Irlbeck Wedding Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Cal C. Stephens are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Betty Jane, to Gilbert Irlbeck, son of V. L. Irlbeck, south of Canyon. The couple was married Aug. 16, 1956.

Mrs. Irlbeck is a student at West Texas State College. He is a graduate of Canyon High School and a farmer. They are residing in Canyon.

Note Differences In Game Rulings

Spectators at Little League games this summer will note several differences between the game as played by youngsters and the adult game of baseball.

Under the playing rules of Little League, the most important difference is that a base runner may not leave his base until after the pitched ball has gone past the batter. If the pitcher is on the pitcher's rubber and the catcher is in his position ready to catch, no base runner can leave whichever base he has legally gained until a pitched ball has reached the batter, according to the rules.

If a runner leaves a base illegally, play can be made on him. If he is put out, the out stands; but if he reaches the next base, he must be returned to the base he left. If a runner leaves a base illegally and the batter makes a hit, the runner who left illegally can make only one base.

That is, under the rules, if a runner leaves first base illegally and the batter makes a safe hit, the runner may not advance past second base regardless of how far the ball was hit; in effect, if a runner leaves base illegally and a batter hits the ball out of the park, the runner must stop at the next base and the batter's home run cannot count as a score.

The following rules also differ from those used in adult baseball:

No batter can go to first base under any circumstance following a third strike unless there be interference on the part of the catcher.

Should a pitcher occupy the mound at any time during a game and be removed to another position but not leave the game he cannot be returned to the pitcher's mound again during the progress of the game.

Since runners cannot leave bases before a pitched ball reaches the batter, there is not too much reason for a Little League pitcher to commit a balk. However, several things can happen which if they should occur, must be called a balk. There must be runners on bases to have the following in effect:

1. If the pitcher gets in position on the rubber and does not have the ball in his possession.
2. If the pitcher starts his windup and the ball slips from his hand so as to cause an incomplete delivery.
3. If the pitcher is standing on the pitcher's rubber and drops the ball.
4. If the pitcher begins his windup and stops.
5. If the pitcher delivers a pitch to the batter while the catcher is not in the catcher's box.
6. If the pitcher delivers the ball to the batter with his pivot foot not in contact with the pitcher's rubber.

County Tax - -

general and courthouse and jail —could not be made larger than 25 cents of the levy, and the total could not be more than 95 cents.

Since the amendment was passed the commissioners may set the rates for any of the funds at any point that is necessary, but the total may not be more than 95 cents.

In calling for the tax increase, the commissioners said that the general fund will show a deficit at the end of this year because of heavy expenditures for capital improvements.

The new tax office building in Amarillo was built and outfitted out of current revenue. The furnishings for the new jail building were purchased the same way.

Next year, the bonds issued for the new jail will begin maturing and money must be collected in the courthouse and jail fund and be transferred to the sinking fund in order to pay them off.

The 25-cent levy for the sinking fund is used to pay off right of way bonds issued for the expressway.

The commissioners said the law requires them to collect money in the courthouse and jail fund and transfer it to the sinking fund to pay off the bonds rather than collecting it directly into the sinking fund.

Auditor E. T. Cummings told the commissioners that the 25-cent sinking fund levy plus a $10,000 excess in the fund would pay off the expressway bonds maturing next year without cashing any of the Treasury bonds held as a reserve for the sinking fund.

The tax increase was the second successive for Randall County. Last year, the general rate was raised from 93 cents per hundred dollar valuation to $1.05.

The commission, sitting as the board of equalization, began reviewing tax assessments for next year. Tax Collector-Assessor Bill Money said few changes were made in the roll, with the raises being offset by changes downward.

The commissioners hope to finish the review of the tax roll by Friday afternoon.

A public hearing will be set for sometime in June for the board to hear arguments of taxpayers.

City Water - -

it was needed in a hurry, the water rate was increased.

The audit showed that last year the water and sewer department revenues paid their own operation, paid principal on outstanding revenue bonds and paid for $16,314.97 worth of capital improvements, and still had $53,517.03 left over for transfer into the general fund of the city.

The water and sewer revenues are entirely adequate to handle repayment of the $500,000 bond issue that has been proposed, but the tax structure will not handle the repayment of the $150,000 tax bonds which have been proposed.

Mayor Foster said the commission feels that the tax should carry its load of city operations and repayment of bonds. Under law, water and sewer revenues could be used to pay off tax bonds, but tax money cannot be used to pay off revenue bonds.

If the bond issue was approved by the voters and no provisions for tax increases were made, the city would be short about $15,000 to make the payment in 1958.

A tax increase of 25 cents, the increase proposed by the commission, would bring in about $14,000 using last year's tax roll. It has been estimated that this year's roll will be about $500,000 larger than last year's due to increased building.

"We could get this issue passed without a tax increase this year and handle it fine," Mayor Foster said. "But the next commission would be in bad shape for next year. We can't leave them booby-trapped like that. We've got to get the money coming in now so it will be ready next year."

The proposed $650,000 bond issue will be used to buy water rights to four sections of land west and north of Canyon, drill three wells, install a gathering system and a 16-inch transmission pipeline from the water field to Canyon.

A study of the four sections made by Bill McMorries, consulting engineer for the city, shows that the area has enough water to supply a population of approximately 20,000.

A total of 16 wells could be drilled on the four sections and the 16-inch line will bring about nine million gallons of water a day to Canyon under pressure. Using only gravity flow, it will bring about three million gallons a day into the city.

McMorries estimated that if the water would be available, the city would use 3.1 million gallons on peak days this summer. However, the maximum that can be produced is 2.6 million gallons, and a shortage will result.

The city plans to try to control the shortage by rationing the college, stopping watering in the park and reducing pressure in the lines so less water will flow to users. However, if those methods do not work, a rationing system will be devised.

The proposed bond issue has been endorsed by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce has undertaken the job of "getting the vote out."

The city commission was told by its fiscal agent, R. A. Underwood Jr., that a large vote would materially affect the sale of bonds, and could mean as much as one-quarter of one per cent in the interest rate.

TELEPHONE TALK

by W. L. Leavy, Manager

Thanks For Your Comments

You probably remember that a few weeks ago, we mailed out post cards to you and all our customers in Canyon. We asked you in the post card what you didn't like about telephone service or our company.

We weren't asking for compliments. We did it to find out what customers had complaints so we could try to remove the causes of their complaints.

Here's how it turned out: We mailed 1420 cards and 245 were returntd with comments. We naturally were pleased that only 62 replies — about four per cent of the total mailing — were criticisms. More than three times that mony replies were complimentary.

But let's look at the criticisms. Each of the 62 customers who had complaint was contacted in a sincere effort to clear up the source of his complaint. About 90 per cent expressed satisfaction.

That's what we consider our most important job—satisfying our customers, giving you the kind of telephone service you want. And we hope you realize the post card canvass is only one way for you to make your complaints known to us.

If something is bothering you about your telephone service right now, or in the future, don't hesitate to call us. We'd like to know about it too.

Why Not Personalize It?

"Telephone service is telephone service," a friend of mine said the other day. "What's so different about it now than before?"

I was glad he asked me. It gave me a chance to bring him up to date about complete, convenient telephone planning.

"Look at it this way," I said. "A Model-T will still get you from here to there. But you wouldn't want one for your family car. You have the latest model. And before you bought it, you looked over all the models, styles, special features—even colors—and picked out the one that suited you best.

"And it's the same way with phone service these days. You can select a telephone arrangement that exactly fits your own needs."

Here's What I meant:

Enough telephones so you don't have to run to answer (or walk halfway thorugh the house to make a call).

Telephones in color in bedrooms and kitchen to harmonize or contrast with your room decorations.

Phone book listings for everyone in the house. And maybe a second main line for teen-agers.

And extra bells or signal lamps if necessary, so nobody misses important incoming calls.

We're always happy to help plan a personalized home telephone arrangement. Lots of Canyon people already are taking advantage of the many low-cost "extra" services we offer.

Career of Robert Henri Seen in Collection of Works in Museum

Paintings representing almost every stage in the career of Robert Henri will be shown in the Hall of Fine Arts at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum here beginning Sunday, June 2.

Henri was one of a group of artists referred to in a Metropolitan Museum of Art bulletin as "tht eight" who battled to see realism accepted as art. At the time of this conflict—around the early 1900's—the art world was dominated by critics who insisted that realistic portrayal of every day persons and scenes was not true art.

Those critics frowned on Henri's work as "ugly," although it has since been widely accepted and, in fact, was responsible for making possible current art which aims at interpreting scenes of life as they exist in actual life.

The Henri exhibit comes to Canyon direct from the Fort Worth Art Center. It also has been seen recently in Los Angeles, Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Wichita Falls.

According to the Metropolitan's bulletin, Henri and his associates were bound together, not by a particular style, but by their determination that the artist should have the freedom and opportunity to express his message in his own way. They helped, the bulletin says, to awaken America from a slumberous period to a new self-understanding.

Henri was a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, but much of his boyhood was spent in Nebraska, where his parents went to homestead. A series of difficulties forced the family to move back East, and it was at his home in Atlantic City, N. J., that Henri's talent was discovered.

He attended the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, then studied in Paris and traveled in Italy and Spain. For several years beginning in 1891 he taught in Philadelphia at a school of design, then moved to Paris for one year before settling in New York.

During subsequent years, he traveled extensively in this country and abroad.

The artist's exposure to various European schools of thought with his wide travels in America helped to prepare him for the interpretation of the American scene on canvas which brought about the successful "revolution" against mere prettiness in art, experts say.

Little League Asks Spectators Show Good Sportsmanship at Summer Tilts

Display of good sportsmanship is expected of spectators at Little League games as well as from the players and managers, officials of the Randall County Little League said this week.

The national organization suggests that the conduct of adults at the games will have a decided effect on the conduct of the players. "The managers and coaches of the teams, as well as the umpires and others in direct contact with the boys on the field, should set examples in conduct, sportsmanship and behavior which the boys will copy.

"Naturally, the boys are also impressed by the attendance at the games of their parents, neighbors, police officers, school officials and others. To a considerable degree, the players will follow the examples of sportsmanship shown by these fans," a book issued by the national association says.

The book suggests that spectators should show quick applause for a solid hit or a fine feat of fielding. And, likewise, there should be a quick expression of sympathy for the youngster who "muffs" one.

The spectators should "boo" neither the umpires nor the players. Since the umpires are local citizens who have volunteered their time, their efforts should not be criticized.

"The principal objective of Little League is the good of the boys who play," the national book explains. "Little League is based upon an appreciation and understanding of the needs of youth. It is carried on locally by adult volunteers who deserve high commendation and recognition for their selfless efforts."

The officers of the Randall County league have asked that spectators refrain from showing disapproval of plays and calls by the umpires.

Still Taking Bids For Geography Trip

A full bus load for the annual field geography tour, sponsored by the West Texas State College geography department, has been reported by Dr. Murry B. Measamer, tour director and head of the geography department.

Though the bus is currently filled, reservations for the trip to the Southeastern states and Cuba are still being accepted, Dr. Measamer said. He anticipates a number of cancellations before the deadline for canceling reservations June 1.

The tour, July 19 through Aug. 10, will cover six Southeastern states, with most time being spent in Florida. A trip by boat is planned from Key West to Havana, with two nights and a day set aside for touring the Cuban city.

Among points to be visited in Florida are Daytona Beach, Miami Beach, St. Augustine, Clearwater, Tallahassee, and Ft. Myers. At Crystal Springs the group will observe sponge diving, and at Cypress Gardens they will see a famed water ski show.

The tourists will spend a full day in Charleston, S. C., on the return trip home. The tour carries six semester hours credit in geography.

RANGE CHECKERS "D" with STILBESTROL

for feeding steers on grass...

Today the benefits of stilbestrol are available to the man who's running steers on grass. It's available in Purina Range Checkers "D", the pasture supplement built for feeding on grass and already a favorite with cattlemen by the thousands.

Checker-fed steers can be expected to make higher daily gains and show a better grade at market time than those on grass alone. Test after test has proved this point. Now, with stilbestrol in Range Checkers "D" results of supplement feeding on pasture should be even greater than ever before! For stilbestrol's job in Range Checkers "D" is to stimulate cattle to eat more grass, then help turn more of it into beef.

Because market prospects for straight "grass-feds" look so dim, we suggest you see us right away. Get our recommendation on supplementing pasture with Purina Range Checkers "D" with stilbestrol for cattle on grass.

To The Honorable Hosea D. Foster,
Mayor, and City Commissioners
City of Canyon
Canyon, Texas
Gentlemen:

We have made an examination of the books, records and accounts of the

CITY OF CANYON

for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1956, and ending March 31, 1957. Our examination included such tests of the accounting records and other such auditing procedures as we deemed necessary in the circumstances. Our examination did not include verifications of the costs nor to the existence of all fixed properties owned by the City of Canyon, nor of accounts and notes receivable.

In our opinion, subject to the above exceptions, the accompanying balance sheet, exhibits and related schedules present fairly the financial position of the City of Canyon, Texas, at March 31, 1957, and the results of its operations for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

Cherry Blossoms

BY DOVIE CHERRY

"When you have worked with a young girl and she says out of the clear blue sky that she wants to be a home demonstration agent, or when you have worked with young people and watch them grow up and become parents, you get a great satisfaction in having had a part in their lives," said Mona Hildreth in discussing her occupation as county home demonstration agent.

A home demonstration agent derives a lot of satisfaction from her work according to Mrs. Hildreth. To her it's important work, this job of being a link between the combined federal, state and county extension service program.

An agent's work is not only passing on research information about food, clothes, home management, etc., but to try to help women and families with their personal problems, and to try to give women an incentive to be "better than best" in personality, character and physical ways.

"There is a great satisfaction in seeing the women do something with perhaps the inspiration that you have given them," she said.

A woman who is a HD agent must be as near a model of what she preaches as she possibly can. Thus, she must be attractively groomed, have a pleasant and adjusted personality, be alert and eager to know and learn about new things and above all must like people and be willing to try to understand them.

A young woman who wishes to be a HD agent must have a home economics major in college. In addition, she usually has an English minor plus some journalism. Other courses which she takes include chemistry, which is important, art and costume designing, to name a few.

Mrs. Hildreth believes courses in public speaking and sociology would be indeed helpful. She also stresses the importance of a home economics major getting a Smith-Hughes certificate, which is a permanent home economics certificate for which she has done preparation for teaching.

She also believes the home economics major should stay in the home management house. She advocates that the home management house is a good place to learn the practical methods of home economics which so many girls in modern living have not learned at home.

A young woman may be a HD agent in training during her junior or senior years in college. This gives her confidence and knowledge of what the agent's job will require before she is out on her own.

Also, there are books and courses available for the agent to read and report on while she is on the job. HD agents are encouraged to take a leave and study additional courses to keep them up to date.

Mrs. Hildreth, who has been a HD agent for nine years, finds that there is never enough time for everything. There are so many families to visit and so many problems to deal with that the day just isn't long enough.

Since many people regard the agent's job as strictly one of counselling and since a good deal of her time is spent doing exactly that, Mrs. Hildreth strongly advises the future agent to teach before becoming an agent.

This gives valuable experience in dealing with young people and parents and helps the agent to express her knowledge and views.

Mrs. Hildreth visits each of the 11 clubs in the county once every six weeks. The demonstrations, in which she passes on information by visual as well as verbal means, are not easy to work up. She said it takes time and experimenting to polish it to one's satisfaction.

The agent's work involves a lot of traveling, reading and visiting. She must constantly read material to keep informed about what's new, which is no easy task.

An agent is supposed to work only 40 hours a week and during those hours she must not only attend to duties mentioned but is required to work in some practice in sewing and cooking. In a busy schedule, much of this is done at night.

Must a woman who becomes an agent have lived on a farm and have 4-H and HD club experience? No, according to Mrs. Hildreth. Although it helps in understanding farm family problems to have lived on a farm, women have become agents who have not lived in the country and have made good ones, she said.

This agent loves her work and she said one must love it to do it. She rates it as satisfying, challenging and important.

There are many other jobs in the home economics field which a young woman may pursue. A HD agent is only one phase of work. A woman with a home economics major and emphasis on chemistry may do research on food, fabrics and products for the home.

Home economics majors may be dietitians, have a job in the Army as a combination dietitian and supervisor and manager. She may become a costume designer. Gunn Brothers in Amarillo recently hired a home economist as have Firestone or Southwestern Public Service.

The opportunities are many and varied.

This is a fine time to clear up a misconception about the extension work. Mrs. Hildreth especially wants the women of Randall County to realize the extension service is for all women of the county, not just for club women.

In fact, she plans to inaugurate in the near future special interest workshops in clothing and she hopes in food if facilities can be located for such a workshop.

If you have a problem of home management, clothing, food, etc., call her. She will be glad to help you.

Sometime ago I either read or heard or was told that the number of girls who take home economics in college in the United States is greatly decreasing.

This may in part be the reason for the shortage of HD agents. Because of the shortage some of the restrictions have been removed. For instance, several years ago a woman could be an agent only as long as she remained single.

Mrs. Hildreth names as one of the main values of home demonstration clubs the opportunity they give women to get together and share problems, thus, lightening their burdens and helping them continue being mothers and homemakers with the knowledge that they are not alone in their problems.

Sweet-Rogers Wedding Read

Nuptial vows were solemnized Saturday afternoon for Glenda Lavell Sweet and Clarence Delbert Rogers in a double-ring ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Sweet. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rogers. The Rev. Mrs. C. W. Haddock, former pastor of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, read the vows.

Janell Sweet attended her sister as maid-of-honor. She wore a white dress, white accessories and a pink corsage. Best man was a cousin of the bridegroom, Marvin Nealey.

The bride chose for her wedding a ballerina length dress of white lace over taffeta. Her accessories were pale blue, and her corsage was of red roses.

Both the bride and the bridegroom's mothers wore navy blue with white carnation corsages.

A reception honoring the bridal party was held following the ceremony. Norma Jean Glenn and Betty Mariner presided at the table laid with a white lace cloth over pink and centered with a bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. Rogers was a freshman at Canyon High School this past year. The bridegroom attended Canyon High School and is presently employed as co-operator of the Gulf Service Station.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 1307 Ninth Avenue.

A bridal courtesy was given the bride Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Haddock.

Receiving guests were Mrs. Haddock, the bride, her mother, Mrs. Sweet and Mrs. Rogers, the mother of the bridegroom.

DAREDEVILS

Two dairies were engaged in an advertising war in a Western city. One of the companies engaged a daredevil racer to drive a car around the town with large placards, reading:

"This Daredevil Drinks Our Milk."

The rival company came out with placards, twice as large, reading:

"You don't have to be a daredevil to drink our milk."

Balanced Design Means Less Wear — Longer Life — Easier Handling

Use a BIG-CAPACITY JOHN DEERE No.55 Combine

The engine and grain tank are centered on top of the John Deere No. 55 Self-Propelled Combine. This means the No. 55 is balanced at all times, even when the grain tank is full.

Weight being properly distributed—the No. 55 has good flotation and flexibility for soft and rough fields.

Balanced design also means that your crop is evenly distributed over all of the units. There's no overloading to cause grain losses or undue wear.

Come in and let us give you all the details on the 12- or 14-foot John Deere No. 55 Combine—the balanced combine that saves more grain or seed at lower cost.

McSpadden Ends ROTC Duty Tour

Capt. Garland R. McSpadden, who will complete his three-year tour of duty in June with the West Texas State College Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit, has been assigned to join the Second Armored Cavalry Regiment at Fort Meade, Md.

His regiment is scheduled for duty in Europe in February. His duties with the regiment have not yet been assigned. He and Mrs. McSpadden and their daughter, Carol, will leave Canyon early in June.

Capt. McSpadden, a West Point graduate, joined the WT unit in the summer of 1954. He has been an instructor in military history, adjutant for the unit, and faculty sponsor of the Drill Team.

Capt. and Mrs. McSpadden have been active in Canyon church and civic affairs. He is a member of the Canyon Rotary Club and of the Presbyterian Church. He was a Church School teacher, adviser for the church's high school students, an officer of the Men's Brotherhood, a layman speaker and member of the church's governing board.

After graduation from West Point, Capt. McSpadden, a native of Teague, Texas, served with the First Infantry Division for three years.

A graduate of the Armored Officers' Advanced School, he was serving with the Third Armored Division at Fort Knox, Ky., when he was assigned to the WT unit.

Crossland Retires From Ag Division

Aubrey L. Crossland, associate professor of agriculture at West Texas State College since 1946, will retire June 1, according to President James P. Cornette.

Crossland, who has been teaching part-time for the past three years, has taught in Texas schools for 30 years. He plans to continue in the insurance business he entered three years ago.

A graduate of the Chicago Vocational School, where he taught with a U. S. Navy program during the war, Crossland earned his B.S. degree at Sam Houston State Teachers College and his M.S. at Texas A&M. Crossland also taught with a Navy program at the University of Oklahoma during World War II.

Crossland began teaching in 1926, when he was principal of McCrury, Texas, school. He was principal of Johntown school for four years, and was superintendent of Cunningham schools in 1932. He was a vocational agriculture teacher at Bloombury, Mt. Pleasant, and Commerce before coming to WT.

President of Lions clubs in Canyon and Commerce, Crossland has served as president of the Texas Vocational Association and secretary of the Texas Poultry Association. He served four years as a director for the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association.

Crossland is the author of a number of magazine articles and bulletins on poultry raising and vocational agriculture teaching. He is a licensed poultry tester and selecter.

Mr. and Mrs. Crossland and their two sons, Kenny, 9, and Billy Dan, 7, live at 301 26th Street in Canyon.

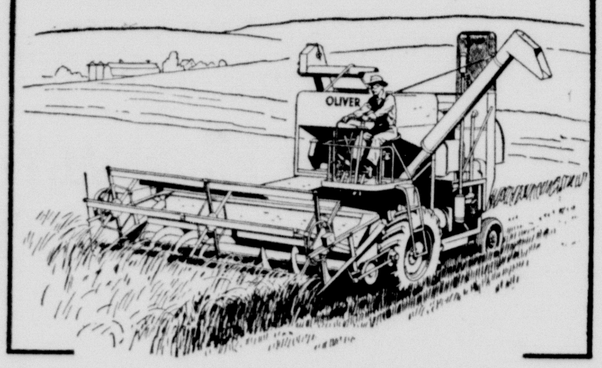
OLIVER

Self-Propelled

Saves More of Every Crop—

Grain, Beans, Corn



Here's the way to save money—right through corn harvest. Oliver's low cylinder makes this possible. Feeding is flat, direct. You wade through the heaviest grain stands and tallest weeds without slugging.

What's more, Oliver's self-propelled corn header is the only one that cuts and handles the entire corn stalk. Gone are the snapping rolls—so are the big shelling losses. You save up to 15% more of your corn crop.

Come in and see all the other Oliver advantages. You get the biggest separating capacity of all in a self-propelled, with 57-bushel grain tank, grain-saving semi-revolving reel. Other advantages include adjustable tread width, 6-forward-speed tractor transmission, choice of variable-speed belt or straight drive, diesel or gasoline engine.

OLIVER

OLIVER COMBINES

It has rained and the prospect for a wheat, oat and barley crop looks very favorable. The Oliver 1957 model combines will do the job on your small grain and also on your row crop. They are the very latest thing in threshing machinery. It is easy to own one of these machines, small cash payment or a trade-in and Oliver will carry balance, pay for it while you use the machine, last payment due in 1960. If your crop gets hailed out or from any cause it does not produce more than $7.50 per acre this year you can pay Oliver half of this year's payment and Oliver will carry the other half one year with interest, if your crop is a complete loss or failure and you do not use the machine, Oliver will carry all of this year's payments for one year without interest or carrying charge. We carry a large stock of Oliver parts, come to see us. The place where you can always get a trade.
